Graduates On The Go

Independence and Mobility in Action as GDA Graduates Travel with their Guides

When students arrive at GDA, it is with the goal of achieving greater independence, mobility and freedom. Having the assistance and companionship of a guide dog certainly makes the day-to-day and routine activities easier. But for guide dog teams, exploring beyond their typical routes or boundaries that they've established for themselves can be an adventure and give the guide dog user a greater sense of wanting to explore further. Sometimes it's a neighboring city or state; or it might be a destination across the country or on an ocean cruise with multiple ports of call; or the call of the wild and the great outdoors. No matter how near or far, our guide dog teams are out and about and enjoying life.

We asked our graduates to share with us some of their recent travels. On this page and inside this newsletter you will read in our graduates' words and see in their photos, the ways in which many of them showed us they are living life to the fullest with their guide dog by their side.

"Coby and I traveled with friends to the Grand Canyon. Our tour bus broke down and we ended up staying a few hours longer than we had planned and we had a great time exploring the area."

– Mark Hanohano

"My guide dog Otto and I attended a celebration recognizing me for my

10 years of service with Southwest Airlines. The event was held at Gilley's in Dallas, Texas. In addition to his harness, Otto donned a faux tux (complete with French cuffs on his paws) to the event."

Taking a 'Paws' to Thank Outgoing GDA President and Welcome New President

As 2016 comes to an end, we ask that you join us in sending best wishes to Dale Hartford, who is retiring after serving seven years as GDA's President. Under his management and oversight there have been many changes and enhancements to the GDA campus as well as the program. His leadership has taken GDA to a new level of excellence.

"Dodger and I recently took a 14 night "Disney cruise" through the Panama Canal. It was fun traveling with all of the characters on the ship and visiting ports like Cozumel, Cartagena Colombia, Puerto Vallarta and Cabo San Lucas. We even demonstrated obedience training, when I put both Dodger and Pluto in a 'down/stay.'"

– Cari Shields

"Pali and I travelled to San Diego this last August. It was our first trip together on our own. One of the days we went to the beach. I have never taken a guide dog to the beach before and it was interesting seeing her reaction. I really feel like we bonded more during the trip and look forward to many more."

A GDA Goodbye Wag Of The Tail To Dedicated Volunteers And Employees

Millions of Reasons to Thank Steve and Grace Cohan — GDA's Dynamic Duo

Steve and Grace Cohan have been GDA's dynamic fundraising duo for more than 27 years. Steve Cohan got things started in 1989 with the first-ever "Hawgs for Dogs" motorcycle ride to benefit the school. Soon after, his partner in life became his partner in creating a series of successful fundraising rides across the country. The pair has planned and helped promote hundreds of rides. As volunteers the couple raised more than $2 million for the school.

Grace joined the GDA Outreach Department as staff in 2005; Steve joined a year later. The couple has spent the past several years traveling from city to city, visiting and educating individuals and businesses about the school and continuing their fundraising efforts. Throughout the years, they have traveled with GDA's annual Harley-Davidson motorcycle, selling raffle tickets and bringing awareness to others about GDA. Please join us in wishing the Cohan's many happy miles of retirement and safe travels always.

Longtime Class Cook Angie Wellington Hangs up her Chef Coat

For more than 30 years, class cook Angie Wellington has welcomed GDA students to our breakfast, lunch and dinner table. Thousands of meals have been prepared by Wellington and served to hundreds of graduates over the years.

Graduates frequently mention "the food" among the many things they love about their time in class and Wellington loves making the meals that keep them well fed during their time at GDA. Wellington considers each student that comes to GDA a part of her family.

"I feel so blessed to have the biggest family in the world," she said.

When asked what made something taste so good she would always reply, "I make it with extra love." It is that among so many other things that we will miss when she retires.

Please join us in sending Angie our best wishes and thanking her from the bottom of our hearts (and stomachs).

A Hart-felt Thank You

For the last seven years, Robin Hartford has been the person behind the scenes during her husband Dale's term as GDA President. While her husband's role was more visible, Robin made contributions in several areas that raised funds for the school and its programs. She took on the very important task of overseeing the procurement and inventory of all the merchandise available on the GDA website. She also handled the logistics and management of the annual Las Vegas Charity Banquet — GDA's largest fundraiser every year. And, when needed, she traveled around the country promoting GDA events. Please join us in wishing Robin the best of luck and many happy years of retirement.

"Dale consistently increased the school's fundraising totals and, more importantly, grew the number of guide dog teams graduating each year," said IAM International President Robert Martinez, who announced Hartford's retirement in August. "His loyalty and his leadership will not soon be forgotten."

As we say goodbye and thank you to Dale, we welcome Russell Gittlen as the new GDA President.

Gittlen, who most recently served as IAM District 15 New England Area Director and Local 447 Assistant Business Manager, will assume his new duties on Jan. 1, 2017.

Gittlen brings to the school many years of leadership, management and fundraising experience.

He has actively supported GDA for many years. In 2014, Gittlen was honored with the GDA "Gift of Sight" award in recognition of his dedication to the continuing success and future of the school.

Please join us in congratulating these two GDA "top dogs."

“Escort and I traveled to one of my favorite places, Punta De Mita Mexico. Together we explored the ancient fishing village and went sailing in nearby Puerto Vallarta. Escort’s guide work kept me safe navigating the cobblestone and dirt roads while passing many wild chickens and dogs. It was a great bonding vacation.”

We explored the Independence Hall complex and the National Constitution Center in Philadelphia. Our trip ended in Washington D.C. where we visited our nation’s Capital and the memorials. Please note: This is NOT an auction; your donation will fund a GDA need.

Grocery Store Rewards Cards

We thank all of you who choose to contribute to GDA by shopping at participating grocery stores with your club cards. By registering your cards and designating GDA, a percentage of your total grocery bill is donated to the school every time you shop.

Give to GDA as Your Gift to Family and Friends This Holiday Season.

What do you get the person who has everything? You give in their name. A great gift idea and a very special way to support GDA during the holidays is to make a contribution in the name of your family and/or friends. Your contribution lets those important people on your list know how much you care about the work we do. It also lets them know they are remembered by you in a thoughtful way that makes them a part of giving the gift of independence and mobility to those who are visually impaired. A handwritten card with a special message will be sent to those you designate with your donation. For more information, call (818) 833-6429.

Matching Gifts

Many companies offer a matching gift program to employees. These programs match, dollar-for-dollar, charitable contributions made by an employee, doubling the donation made to Guide Dogs of America! Ask your employer if it offers a matching gift program.

Year-Round Giving One Month at a Time

Many of our supporters make monthly donations to GDA using our convenient automatic donation program. At the beginning of each month, we automatically charge your credit card in the amount you specify. Call (818) 833-6429 with questions or to participate.

CFC Pledge Card

Please designate #11873 on your CFC pledge card. Your CFC contribution helps us breed, raise and train extraordinary guide dogs. These intelligent dogs are provided free of charge and offer trustworthy assistance and companionship to visually impaired men and women as they strive to live their lives to the fullest.

Tax-deductible, End-of-year Charitable Gift Giving

If you are planning to make a donation to GDA and would like to deduct the charitable contribution on this year's taxes (2016), you'll need to make your gifts by Dec. 31. ## Puppy Corner

Why Do Dogs Do That?

Explanations for Common and, Sometimes, Puzzling Canine Behaviors

Most dog owners couldn't imagine life without them, but dogs do have some curious behaviors that "beg" the question, "Why does my dog do that?!" some of the most common curious canine behaviors that leave us scratching our heads or saying, "stop that!" are addressed and explained here.

Eat grass

There are two generally accepted answers to this question. Any dog will seek out a natural relief for a gassy or upset stomach, and grass seems to do the trick. When ingested, the grass blades tickle the dog's throat, as well as his stomach lining. This sensation causes the dog to throw up, especially when the grass has been gulped down instead of chewed on. A sick pooch will usually eat grass in big bites and then vomit.

Although dogs don't normally graze on large amounts of grass like cows do, some dogs simply find the grass taste palatable. If a dog likes to graze and is healthy, just make sure the grass he's eating hasn't been treated with chemicals or pesticides, which can be quite harmful.

Circle before lying down

Before the days of dog beds and rugs, dogs in the wild had to create their own comfy beds. By circling, the dog would flatten out leaves, grass and stems and feel the area with his paws for sharp objects or uneven spots. Circling is just a sign that the dog is getting ready to get comfy.

Wag its tail

Dogs communicate with their tails. Most people believe that a wagging tail means a happy dog but the position of his tail is an indicator of his mood. A low tail curved into a "U" shape with a slow wag, says he's relaxed and content. However, if the dog's tail is high and arched over his back, he is either fascinated or annoyed and a growl may be the only way to tell the difference.

Sniff another dog's backside

Dogs have a sense of smell that can be 10,000 to 100,000 times more sensitive than that of a human. By sniffing another dog's hind end, the dog is actually getting a lot of important information. A quick sniff of the rear, and one dog can tell the other's emotional state, gender, diet and whether the dog is healthy or sick — and much more. This is due to the chemicals stored and secreted from the sacs tucked in a dog's rear end.

Drink out of the toilet

Dogs seem to enjoy drinking out of the toilet so much more than drinking the perfectly good water in his bowl. To him, the toilet is a never-empty supply of clean, cool water. The constant flushing keeps the water fresh and maximizes its oxygenation. However, it is recommended that the lid be kept closed, due to the potential ingestion of harmful bacteria or poisonous cleaning chemicals.

Roll around in smelly stuff

Have you ever caught your dog rolling around in poop? This behavior, while quite disgusting, is also quite common — and very natural. It is believed that the behavior is instinctual, tracing back to the days when their wild ancestors would mask their scent to help them sneak up on their prey. What smells repulsive to humans is like perfume to a dog. Conversely, what smells great to humans doesn't always appeal to a dog. Some theories suggest that dogs engage in this behavior, particularly after baths or when recently groomed, to get rid of an unpleasing (to them) perfume or soap smell.

Eat poop

"Coprophagia" is the clinical term used for when a dog eats poop, and there are several possible explanations for why a dog does so. It's not unusual for a dog to eat poop because he is bored. Sometimes, it is a learned behavior they've picked up from other dogs. If the dog has been punished for going in the house, they might eat it to remove the evidence. It's also a good way to get attention. These are all reasons why a dog might be eating poop but, most of the time, it's simply because dogs like the taste of it and it becomes a habit.

Kick its hind leg when you scratch it belly

Whether the concentration of scratching or rubbing is on his tummy or side, a dog will usually respond by pumping his leg. This could indicate his enjoyment but, more likely, it's because you've found that "sweet spot" that stimulates the scratch reflex, an involuntary reaction. When you locate this particular spot, you're both causing the itch and scratching it. Sometimes veterinarians can use the spot to identify nerve damage or neurological problems. The belly rub kick also can be compared to the knee-jerk that humans do when the doctor taps just below your knee with a hammer.

Tilt its head when you talk to him

The simple answer is that dogs tilt their heads to hear us better. Dogs are well known to have incredible hearing but they sometimes have trouble locating the source of a sound or the direction that it's coming from. Tilting their heads repositions the ears, helps to open the ear canal and allows a dog to better judge distance and position of sounds. As part of their incredible audible abilities, the slight change in sound from different positions of the ears can help a dog pinpoint its source.

Donor Spotlight

Donor's Support of GDA is a Hole in One

Avid golfer Joleen Janssen first became familiar with Guide Dogs of America when she played in a GDA golf tournament. She won the tournament several times, but it's GDA that came out the big winner when Janssen decided to include GDA in her planned giving and become a Partner in Trust.

Janssen has been a donor since 2002, but wanted to do more and ensure that her support of the school would live on.

"I took the GDA brochure to my attorney because I wanted to be sure that the name was absolutely correct," Janssen said. "I think it's a wonderful organization. I have no children so I needed someplace to leave my money when I'm gone. I felt that GDA was a very worthwhile and it's a cause I believe in."

Janssen admitted that they spent more time at the tee, loving and petting the GDA puppies-in-training that greeted them on the course, but that was fine with her. It was that extra time that deepened her understanding of and appreciation for the school and the work it does.

"Over the years, I have explained to many people what the organization is all about and the service GDA provides," Janssen said. "I tell them if you have any faith in dogs at all, I think it's just a perfect place to make a donation or leave your money. Like me, my friends are dog-lovers and they agree with me that it is an excellent cause."

For information about becoming a Partner in Trust, please contact Rhonda Bissell at (818) 833-6432.

Partners in Trust

The Partners in Trust Society was established by GDA as a way to recognize and honor the generosity of those who have included the school in their planned giving.

By thoughtfully naming GDA in their wills, trusts and life insurance policies, the members of the Partners in Trust Society ensure that their support of GDA will continue for years to come. We are forever grateful to them for remembering GDA in their estate plans — in any amount — and we are honored to be a part of their legacy.

For additional information about how you can leave a future gift to GDA, go to guidedogsofamerica.org, click on How to Help, then click on Gift Planning — or call Rhonda Bissell at (818) 833-6432.

Please note: The names that appear on this list indicate those individuals who have included GDA in their estate plans during this past GDA fiscal year (July 1, 2015 to June 30, 2016).
